"Ferocious" Bear Guards County Fair

By NANCY LOFTON

A circus is exciting, bringing with it tantalizing hints of the world beyond the hills. It stimulates the imagination and fires the heart of any man with a desire to go out wandering, but a county fair has all the lure of a circus and something every cirucus lacks —a sense of being real and solid. It is very satisfying to go to a fair to see the fruits and vegetables, the hens and sows, the dogs and horses, the people and flowers, all of them of native origin. They all grew in Monterey County.

The Monterey County Fair, which started yesterday at Monterey and will continue through Sunday night, is exceptional. The grounds are very beautiful and the fair association has decorated them wisely. The fair is large enough to be exciting and not too large to encompass at one visit. There are the usual merry-go-rounds and swings, the ball shys and the whirligig rides. They may be found at any fair. It is the local displays and contributions which give color and character to the fair.

The Fine Arts building shows a large group of pictures by Monterey painters. The garden house has been beautifully decorated by the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club, and the school building has fascinating booths decorated with the work of children in the peninsula schools. The Monterey Junior College Zoology Department has a remarkable exhibit of animal life on the peninsula-sea creatures, animals and birds. There is a real badger as well as a bobcat, and trays of insects with all their intricate and burnished equipment.

The animals are most important in an agricultural community, and so there are pens of light eyed

Worth Saving

Though many artists have painted the Carmel River Lagoon, you don't have to be an artist to enjoy the waves of rosy color that pass over its quiet water at sunset or the gradations of green and brown in the sword-pointed tules, or the clowds that billow along its back drop of mountains on a windy morning. Nor do you have to be a naturalist to feel your heart quicken to the whir of wings when the bands of pintails and mallards rise from the ponds where they make their winter home. Gulls, pelicans, sandpipers, an occasional great blue heron, a seemingly infinite number of waterbirds are attracted to its smooth waters, or to the shelter of the tules and willows that flank its shores. At no season is the lagoon empty of wild life.

To many Carmel people it has become an objective of morning and evening walks, or a place where one can sit in the car to watch the sunset. Others build picnic fires in the sand or, in season, fish for steelhead. Until an attack was made on its tule beds last week in a dirt moving project, most of us had taken the lagoon for granted, assumed it was one of the many blessings that would always be ours. We have taken it for granted too long. Unless we act as a community, insist that this land be purchased by the county and state, soon, before the growing things and the wild life that make up its beauty are destroyed, we shall lose this spot of beauty forever.

Attend the meeting at the high school music room Thursday evening, October 2, at 7:30 o'clock, so that the planning commission and the supervisors may know by your presence that you care about the lagoon and want to keep it. Too many natural areas have been lost already, and once lost they can never be regained. We must not lose ours through our negligence. —W.C.

Kergan Urges Attendance At Lagoon Meeting

The membership of Carmel Unincorporated is urged by its president, Wesley Kergan, to attend the public meeting Thursday, October 2, 7:30 p.m. at Carmel High School music room for a discussion of ways and means of speeding up the acquisition of the Carmel River Mouth and the shore line from the river to Point Lobos by the county and state for a wildlife area and a recreation area, respectively.

The meeting is under the joint sponsorship of the Lobos League and the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, which have invited County Planning Commission Secretary Charles Vogel, Supervisor Andrew Jacobsen and Carmel Martin, chairman of the planning commission, to confer with the people of this area as to how a threat to both Lobos and the natural area at the Carmel River Lagoon can best be combatted.

Overcrowding of Lobos by visitors from all over the state and the nation has created a serious threat to the plant life since the hordes of people cannot be kept on the pathways, and their trampl-filled ground for home building. sary, nor that the land will not again change hands.

Some of the over-use of the State Park, which is primarily a reserve for the natural development of plant and animal life rather than a recreational area, can be relieved if the shore line from Lobos to Carmel River were added to the Park and equipped with picnic facilities, so that the present park area could be closed to picnicking and fishing.

The situation at the Carmel River Mouth involves the need of acquiring the adjacent land before the natural cover for the wildlife, the tules, which also contribute to the scenic values of the area, are destroyed in the interest of commercial development, already underway.

Though for two years Carmel River Mouth has been on the County Planning Commission's

Walstons Open MAC Season With Concert Sunday

The Musical Art Club will open its fall series of concerts with a program to be held amid the pleasant surroundings of the Carmel Art Gallery on Saturday, September 27, at 8 p. m.

The artists are Virginia and Ellsworth Walston, well known in the San Francisco area both as church soloists and as members of madrigal groups, and are familiar to members of the Musical Art Club who have heard them on former visits to Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Walston are members of the Madrigal Guild, a group specializing in the music of the Renaissance period, and are active in several musical clubs, including the Amphion Club, the Senzaritmo Club, and the Oakland Orpheus Club. They have appeared at Woodminster Bowl, the Greek Theater, and the Berkeley Women's City Club in concert. The singers will be accompanied by Mildred Randolph Strand.

The program is as follows:

"When I am Laid in Earth," Dido and Aeneas, by Purcell; Dove Sei, by Handel; Greensleeves, Folk

Graves Back With Photographic Treasure Trove From The Teton

C. Edward Graves, a local man who has made a business success of his hobby, returned last week from another high mountain jaunt with his camera. Now all he has to do is prepare the script to accompany his 2x2 color slides, new additions to his Colorful America series, before he sends out the sets to fulfill advance orders.

During the month of July Mr. Graves took 20 pictures of Crater Lake that he will soon release, and last month he got 20 more of the Teton. He has two series from each place, one for geologists and one showing scenic values. The second series will be used by schools and clubs, and reading matter of from 75 to 100 words for each picture must be written with this public in mind. The descriptions he will prepare for the geologists will be in more scientific language and will discuss the dangerous ages of the earth. Some of each group will probably be shown the Carmel public early in 1948 when Mr. Graves will give a series of talks at Sunset Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Carmel Adult School.

Since his retirement as librarian of Humboldt State College in 1945, Mr. Graves has been producing his series of 2x2 color slides, showing outstanding scenery of this country. From his earliest days he has had a reverence

Citizens Organize Anti-Dog Poisoner Association Here

Ben Kupperman called Dr. Ralph Weston to care for his female toy shepherd Wednesday evening after nine o'clock, and it was discovered that within the last twenty minutes the dog had been poisoned by 32/100% strychnine pellets in each ounce of cooked beef it had eaten.

Dr. Weston and several intimate friends are planning to offer a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest of the poisoner, and, hereafter, whenever a case of dog poisoning is reported, they will place warning placards throughout the neighborhood. Citizens of Carmel interested in a campaign to eliminate such crimes in the future should get in touch with Dr. Weston.

Harry Butts Finds Unidentified Body In 4th St. Gulch

The body of an unidentified man, about 62 years of age, was found by Harry Butts early yesterday afternoon in the Fourth Street Ravine near the beach.

The man, who has been dead about a month or six weeks, according to Deputy Coroner Leland Paul, weighed 165 pounds, was 5 ft. 8 in. tall, dressed in a dark blue double breasted suit, wore oxfords, white shirt, bow tie. He has the hands of an artist or clerical worker, a bald head with a fringe of long gray hair and short mustache. In his pockets were small change, a piece of chocolate and a pencil but nothing by which he could be identified. There were no indications of how he had met his death.

Butts, walking on the beach, was assailed by a strong odor from the ravine, investigated and found the body lying on its face in the brush. He notified Chief of Police Roy Fraties who called in Deputy Coroner Paul.

There have been no recent reports of missing persons in Carmel or Monterey.

Gardener Who Shot Employer Dies In County Hospital

Fred Miller, a gardener from Stockton employed in Hatton Fields, died Wednesday afternoon of self-inflicted wounds while surgeons at the County Hospital made an effort to save his life.

Early Tuesday morning Miller had for unknown reasons taken a .32-20 revolver and shot five times at his employer, Mrs. Harriet Du Bose, a widow who came to Carmel from Stockton only two weeks ago. Neighbors notified the police department, who in turn sent out an emergency call for the Red Cross ambulance. First aid was administered to Mrs. DuBose and she was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital, where she is in a critical condition. Miller barricaded himself in his basement room, slashed his wrist with a razor and was near death when the police gained access to his room.

The District Attorney stated that with the death of Miller the case is closed.

CARMEL GRIDDERS INVADE GUSTINE TONIGHT

Still smarting from their clumsy efforts to hang onto the pigskin in last Friday's Monterey game, the Carmel High School Varsity will journey to Gustine tonight with an avowed intention of putting together a quick-breaking ground attack and a sharp aerial offense. Inability to keep a firm grip on the prolate spheroid caused the Padres many embarrassing moments in the Toreador fracas, and the coaching staff has been working overtime to rub the butter off the fingers.

Gustine has one of the best teams in the Modesto area and is always a power in their league. After absorbing a 7 to 0 licking from Carmel in their opening game last year, the valley boys rode roughshod over the rest of their opposition and were undefeated in the remainder of their games. Boasting a complete veteran outfit the Gustine gridders will have a slight jump on the locals and should make the Padres go all out to stay in the ball game. Last year's team sported several swift backs who knew what to do once they were around the flanks and a season's experience will make them doubly dangerous.

Carmel will rely on sturdy blocking in the line to open holes for the swift shots of Dick Garguilo, Tom Handley, Bob Barry, and Murrey Wight. The Padre forward wall opened big traffic lanes in the Monterey line and with more downfield blocking could have gone for several TD's. Lew McCreery and Dan Holmes will provide the crunch to tighten up the defense and pave the way for the scat backs to circle the flanks. Paul Warner, Nelson Byers, and Jim Hare will operate from the QB spot and provide the arms for the forward pass maneuvers. Up front Owen Greenan, Curtis Gorham, Bob Rissel, and Bill Johnson will handle the end spots. Dick Weer and Mike Monahan, both dependable ends, will be sidelined by hip pointers and will not see action in the Gustine fracas. Four light but scrappy tackles have proved themselves capable of taking plenty of rough blocking and coming back for more. Newt Goodrich, Floyd Adams, Dick Sumner, and Les Bracisco all played steady ball against Monterey and will improve with each game. Anchored by "Gibraltar" Dewar, the guard positions are further augmented by Bill Hodgson, Tom Corley, Basil Allaire, and Elton Clark. Rod is probably the best guard in the CCAL and his sterling play has inspired the other boys in the mud-eating position. Art Harber and Frank Timmins will man the center position and back up the line on the short side. Harber showed natural line-backing instincts last season, has the valuable knack of diagnosing plays before they develop. The Gustine game will give the local preps a fine chance to polish their offense and will acquaint the defense with the maneuvers of a new offensive formation. Gustine has a new coaching staff this year and the Padres will have to enter the game without an inkling of the type of attack to be met.

PADRES GET STANDOFF IN GRID OPENER WITH MONTEREY JUNIOR-VARSITY

After 49 minutes of tussling on the Carmel High School turf last Friday afternoon, the Monterey JVs and the Padre Varsity had each racked up 6 points and that's the way the scoreboard read when the final gun sounded. Carmel made all the yardage and scored both the touchdowns — including the one for Monterey. Monterey scored when a Carmel forward pass back-fired and Oyama, a speedy Toreador halfback, pranced 60 yards after the interception. On the ground the Padres showed a wealth of power and moved to a score early in the second quarter. Tom Handley, a hard-running halfback, crossed the goal after rambling 12 yards on an off-tackle smash. Warner's pass for the conversion was off the mark and the Padres had to be satisfied with 6 points.

Monterey presented a swift set of backs who were dangerous throughout the contest. The Monterey line proved tough to penetrate when the Padres neared their danger zone, and the vicious tackling caused the Padre backs to fumble on several occasions. Early season ragged blocking caused the Toreador ground attack to bog down at times and forced them to employ a kicking game, which they did with happy success. On two successive Monterey kicks the ball was very generously fumbled by the host school and the visitors recovered for nice gains.

Carmel fumbles were the best plays in the Monterey repertoire and they used them 11 times during the afternoon. Although the swift Padre backs accumulated 241 yards on running plays, they were able to cross the goal line only once. Flashes of brilliance on the part of halfbacks Garguilo and Handley, together with the deft ball handling of Warner and the line-plunging of McCreery, made it appear that the Padres would have a fast moving offense once the season jitters departs the ball-handlers.

Bob Barry and Murrey Wight played outstanding defensive ball in the Carmel secondary and were largely responsible for holding the Toreador sweeps for meager yardage. Floyd Adams, making his initial appearance on the Padre Varsity, was the outstanding lineman on the field. Floyd turned back everything thrown at him when on the defense and handled his blocking assignments like a veteran. The entire Carmel line turned in a steady performance and when the backfield matches the line the red and gray will be tough to handle.

Players seeing action for Carmel were: Bob Barry, Dick Weer, Newt Goodrich, Mike Monahan, Lew McCreery, Bob Rissel, Bill Hodgson, Rod Dewar (Captain). Dan Holmes, Tom Handley, Elton Clark, Art Harber, Owen Greenan, Floyd Adams, Les Bracisco, Murrey Wight, Curtis Gorham, Basil Allaire, Nelson Byers, Tom Corley, Dick Sumner, Paul Warner, Bill Johnson, Dick Garguilo, and John Blinks.

Officials: Joe Oleata (Referee) Gene Ricketts (Umpire), Howard Byrnes (Head Linesman).

CCAL GRID NOTES

The bigger they are the harder they fall. Monterey High School is going a long way toward making this old adage hold up for this football season. For the last two Saturdays Star-studded San Francisco prep school football squads have invaded the Toreador bailiwick, and each has gone home licking its wounds. The rough andready Toreadors first manhandled the George Washington Varsity to the tune of 20 to 7, and a week later submerged the Lowell Indians by a 14 to 0 count. Building their offense around a 200 pound fullback, Dick Narvaez, the Monterey lads have shown a terrifically hard charging line and a backfield, although not fast, very adept at knocking down defensive players who happen in their way. Salinas, the choice of the experts to cop the CCAL crown, better spend lots of time on fundamentals or the Padres will knock them out from under the crown.

King City has taken up where it left off last season when their gridders were the scourge of the B division. Last Saturday afternoon the big and rugged Mustangs ran over the Atascadero eleven for a 35 to 6 victory. A bruising running attack coupled with accurate passing completely subued the lighter Atascadero boys. Tomorrow the Mustangs will get the acid test when they engage the highly touted Santa Barbara eleven at Santa Barbara. King City is capable of giving them a good game and could provide the upset of the season by handing the big name school a whipping.

Pacific Grove makes its 1947 debut tonight with the Gilroy High School providing the opposition. The Breakers received a severe jolt when their first string quarterback, Conlan, suffered a broken leg during a scrimmage session. Conlan was an outstanding passer and a deft ball-handler in the Breaker T formation. Jerry Nair, all-league guard, and the scourge of enemy backfields, has been shifted to the backfield to compensate for the loss of Conlan. Pacific Grove has the best line in the B division and will be a tough outfit to go through, over, or around.

All the schools in the CCAL will engage in practice games this weekend before the serious business of championship league play commences the first week in October.

SEVEN CARMEL HIGH STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN S. F. MATCHES

The first anniversary of big time tournament tennis for junior boys and girls of Carmel takes place this Saturday and Sunday when four girls and three boys participate in the 58th Pacific Coast Tennis Championships and 2nd Annual National Boys Hardcourt Championships at the California Tennis Club in San Francisco.

Missing faces this year will be Ann Rigdon, whose residence is now Chicago, Illinois, and Lee Winslow, who has grown too old for junior play.

Making the trip for the second time will be Patricia Timbers, Jennefer Lloyd, and Dick Hawk. Last year, due to the fine showing in this tournament, Patricia Timbers was ranked ninth best 15 and under girls singles player in northern California.

The new future tennis hopefuls are: Biz Carr, Edelen Cory, Kim Hollins, and Stewart Emery. For Edelen Cory and Kim Hollins it will be the first major tournament but the others have had a few good tournament wins behind them.

Patricia and Jennefer gained the quarter-finals in the recent San Francisco City Championships. Biz Carr advanced to the second round play during the State Championships before losing to third National Ranking Arvilla McGuire. Dick Hawk also threw a scare into officials of the State Championships when he came close to winning a three set match against Northern California's sensational junior, Jerry Dewitts. Stewart Emery came through to the quarter-finals in this same tournament, which was his first tournament, so all of the boys and girls are hoping they may have the same success or better during this last major tournament of 1947.

A great deal of hard work has gone into the preparation for this tournament because it not only meant the chance to play against the best of players for additional experience, which they pass on to those who stay home, but they will have the opportunity of seeing in action the best tennis players in the world.

The English, Australian and Czech Davis Cup Teams will be playing on the same courts as our players. Also participating will be Jack Kramer, Tom Brown, Ted Schroeder, Eddie Moylan, Margaret Osborne, and Dorothy Head of the United States.

Illness Forces Paganini Quartet To Postpone Concert

Information received this week from Henri Temianka, spokesman for the Paganini Quartet, has compelled postponement of the concert by the quartet scheduled for Carmel on October 9. Last week the quartet, which has been spending the summer at its home in the Carmel Highlands, left for San Francisco to commence an autumn tour of concerts, including appearances at Salt Lake City, Seattle, Berkeley, San Francisco and Santa Barbara.

This week Robert Maas, cellist of the quartet and senior member of the group, was ordered to a San Francisco hospital for several weeks' rest. His doctors assure him that after a period of quiet he will be able to complete the scheduled strenuous concert tour which has been in prospect. Mr. Maas spent several years in the German occupied portion of Europe, and has not recovered entirely from the effects of wartime privation.

A tentative date for the Carmel concert, to be given under the auspices of the Monterey County Symphony Association by the quartet, has been announced by Mrs. Grace C. Howden, Association president, for Sunday evening, October 26. Confirmation of this date must await consultation of the Quartet's management in New York.

50 Attend First Symphony Meeting, Room For More

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, under the joint direction of Lorell McCann of Salinas and Clifford Anderson of Monterey, has made an auspicious beginning of its autumn rehearsals, according to the observation of its conductors and interested listeners. The orchestra, numbering more than 50 players, many of them veterans of last year's work, is meeting on Monday evenings at the Carmel High School music room. A number of positions in the orchestra are still open, and applicants are encouraged to attend a rehearsal or get in touch with one of the conductors.

A considerable amount of new music for the orchestra was purchased during the summer by the Symphony Association. Mrs. Grace C. Howden, Association president, reports that at a recent meeting of the directors it was decided to pay transportation costs of members of the orchestra driving to rehearsals from points outside of the Peninsula. Numerous players come from Salinas, Watsonville and points in the Salinas valley.

The orchestra is hoping to present three concerts during the coming season, the first of which will probably be given during the Chirstmas season. It is contemplated that at all concerts given by the orchestra, a preference in purchasing seats will be given to members of the Symphony Association who have contributed to its current drive for funds.

Hi Chatter

By PEGGY RIKER

Once again this year four lucky seniors, chosen on the basis of scholarship, need, and interest, will compete with other seniors throughout the country for the coveted Pepsi-Cola Scholarship. If they rate among the 15 highest contestants in California they will be eligible to take the regular college board examinations. The two who excel in these examinations will be awarded complete tuition for four years, plus a monthly allowance of twenty-five dollars and traveling expenses to the college of their choice. This is a splendid opportunity for some outstanding student who otherwise might not receive a college education.

For the first time in its history Carmel High crowned a queen as a result of a student body election held last Friday. The honor fell to Edelen Cory, a vivacious sophomore, who will compete with the queens of other county high schools this Friday (today) at one o'clock at the Monterey County Fair.

The class of '47, who graduated last June, has scattered in all directions and now represents Carmel High School throughout the country.

Pat Bacon is attending Stockton J. C., and from the latest reports is enjoying it immensely; Roger Byers is studying mining engineering at Nevada University; Jane Coughlin, Richard Templeman, and Perry Brown are attending San Jose State; while Salinas J. C. is favored with Dick Hawk, Victor Harbor, John Chitwood, Don Day, Robert Jensen, Bob Morrisseau, Ed Stetson, and Diane Tait.

Mary Gregory, who so ably wrote Hi Chatter last year, won a scholarship to Cal; Thelma Melvido is studying nursing at Providence College in Oakland; and Teddy Greene has journeyed South to attend Scripps at Claremont. Joe Goodrick is studying engineering at California Polytechnic; Blair McDonald and Jim Snavely have chosen Menlo J. C. as their alma mater; while Bill Sapsis has registered at the University of California at Berkeley, and Jean Morlan at Los Angeles. David Hudson has left for Washington University; Robin Robinson will attend San Francisco College for Women; and Pat Bullard will travel to Dansville, Virginia, to enter Stratford College. Sue Dekker and Joanne Gorham will be wearing Stanford's red and white; and according to the most recent word both Lorraine Harris and Joan Carr have made excellent sororities at University of Oregon. Mary McElroy and Jim Sully will remain in Carmel to attend Monterey Peninsula College.

Carmel may well be proud of their collegiates who only yesterday were struggling with algebra and chemistry. It is an interesting fact that 86% of last year's graduating class went on to colleges, J. C.'s, or Universities. This is one of the highest percentages in our country today.

Real Locomotive, Almost, Adds Thrills To Troopers' Play

By JANE HASKELL

At the First Theatre in Monterey last Sunday night there was once again high entertainment when the Gold Coast Troopers presented After Dark, a thrilling and fast moving melodrama by Dion Boucicault. The audience showed its enthusiasm by applauding at the beginning of the show to the customary response of "No" from the Troopers back stage when asked by the M.C. "Are you ready, Troopers?"

Those who have seen After Dark before at the First Theatre will enjoy it again for the new characterizations are well worth taking in, and it is a clever show all around.

Eddie George played the part of Chandos Bellingham, a slick villain, so skillfully that it took him some time after the play was over to convince the audience that he was a harmless master of ceremonies. Good for a laugh almost any time was Andy DiGirolamo in the part of "Dicy" Morris, the second villain and owner of the Silver Hell Gambling House. Every minute of the time he was on stage, whether he had lines or not, Andy DiGirolamo was acting his part to perfection and each time he said, "Hope I may die if I don't" it was better than the time before, and each time brought laughs from the crowd.

Accomplice of the villains was Esther Gay as Josie, and always her performances are tops.

All of these villains were trying to outwit one poor victim, Sir George Medhurst, well portrayed by Nicky LeFeuvre as a slightly weak character with potentialities, desperate, and so bewildered that well he might have been outwitted if not for the substantial characters of Frank Dalton or Old Tom, and Gordon Chumley, played by Morgan Stock and James Rasmussen. Morgan Stock let the strength of Frank Dalton's character show through the drunken Old Tom, as he was called, because he drank so many of them, that great things were expected of him in the way of heroic rescues and in the nick of time appearances. The aristocratic manner of Gordon Chumley, Sir George's friend, enacted by James Rasmussen, had the proper amount of dignity and of benevolence.

Charming assets to the play were the heroines, played by Virginia Ward and Lorraine Mosley. The young and noble wife of Sir George was sympathetically interperted by Lorraine Mosley, and the slightly snobbish cousin, Rose Edgerton, by Virginia Ward. All players were excellent in their roles, and others who deserve mention for parts of lesser importance so far as lines and action are concerned, but of great importance to the success of the play are: Judy Navarro as the Vender of Cigar Lights, Allen Svarye as the Policeman, Albert Mills, David McDonald, Helen Taft, Ruth Neuffer, and Bob Hazelwood, and Ruth Neuffer as Cosette, the maid.

After the exciting performance in which there is a very real sounding and looking locomotive, Master of Ceremonies Eddie George introduced the various numbers entertaining the audience himself with his appearances in Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean and his famous vocal rendition of Gathering up the Shells from the Sea Shore. Morgan Stock was particularly good as the singing narator in The Lost Child and in Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean. Judy Navarro, the child star, was most appealing in The Lost Child. As usual, Esther Gay was delightfully amusing in My Mother Was a Lady. A very charming and pretty number was Up in a Balloon in which Virginia Ward portrayed the girl in Maxine Albro's painting, that is on exhibition in the barroom of the theatre.

The whole performance is made to run smoothly and with the greatest amount of enjoyment for the onlookers due to the expert costuming of Rhoda Johnson, lovely set designs by Maxine Albro, Dick Johnson's stage managing, Herman Korf's lighting, Sadie P. Henderson's musical effects at the piano, and above all, to the directors, Wilma Bott and Esther Gay, along with the managers Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous.

Franklin Brewer To Discuss Sylvia Warner

Franklin Brewer, the young man about whom Gertrude Stein wrote her book, Brewsie and Willie, will address Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's class in Room 11, Sunset School, next Tuesday evening, September 30, at 7:30.

He will speak of his friendship with Sylvia Townsend Warner, the English novelist, and give a survey of her work. All those who wish to attend will be welcome, and Mrs. Clairmonte suggests that it would be a good idea to read one of Miss Warner's books before the class meets, so that the discussion may be more interesting.

DR. GRAY SPEAKER

The Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' Episcopal Church announce that the guest speaker at their first monthly luncheon of the autumn will be Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, Minister of the Church of the Wayfarer. Dr. Gray's subject will be The Church in the Community. The luncheon will take place in the Parish House on Monte Verde Street south of Ocean Avenue at 12:30 Wednesday noon, October 1. Luncheon is followed immediately by Dr. Gray's talk. AIRPORT MEETING

The Airport District Board met Tuesday morning with Admiral C. T. Durgin, Commandant of the 11th and 12th Naval Districts, whose headquarters are in San Diego, for the purpose of discussing the future use of the Monterey Airport. During the war this property was leased to the Navy with the understanding that it would be returned to civilian authorities at the close of hostilities, and it was in fact returned on what was called an interim permit. It was qualified for C.A.A. control tower operation. There has been doubt since then whether the C.A.A. would be left undisturbed, but Admiral Durgin stated at the meeting that he would recommend joint use by civilians and Navy.

ulties forms the beginning of culture for him.

"An important element in the development of musical sense is found in body action," said Mrs. Lansdowne. "Therefore the dramatizing of nursery rhymes and the playing of singing games present the fundamental means for reaching even the least musical children. Muscular control is accomplished by marching to music, hopping, imitating birds flying, leaves falling or squirrels scampering. The main object of these lessons, of course, is to develop grace in the men and women of tomorrow."

Mrs. Lansdowne's classes are now such an integral part of the family life of Carmel, where mothers appreciate trained assistance in raising their young, that the rhythm of the season itself would not seem natural without the fall opening of her rhythm class.

Rhythm Class Opening Part Of The Rhythm Of Carmel Seasons

"The three R's are not enough for modern education," Kathryn Lansdowne claimed this week as she prepared to open her classes October 1, in the June Delight studio on Mission Street. "The fourth R, Rhythm, is absolutely essential for present-day development of balance and poise. The younger generation will swim, skate and golf far better as a result of the coordination of faculties which rhythm classes encourage, and all their social activities will be more successful."

Mrs. Lansdowne is a veteran Carmelite who has for many years been supplementing the formal education of children from four to sixteen years of age with her program of musical training. She begins by acquainting the youngest with the piano keyboard, the staff and values of notes and rests, and as time goes on she presents her students to the public in accordance with their talent ranges. Mrs. Lansdowne takes the attitude that rhythmic feeling is instinctive in everyone and that even the use of a rattle can be interpreted as primitive musical training. She finds that a very young child is particularly responsive to the teaching of measure in sound, and this awakening of his musical fac-

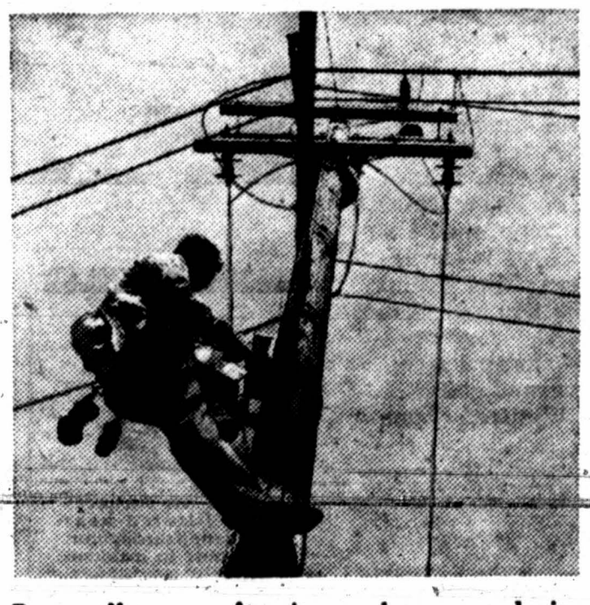
New ways the telephone can reach remote areas

Radio telephone allows your voice to "ride the beam" into Death Valley, across the channel to Catalina Island . . . to Mount Hood . . . between Marysville and Redding. With transmitters like this one we can span sea or desert by radio and your voice sounds exactly as though it were coming over a telephone wire.



Power-line carrier is another new device which makes telephone communications possible in remote, sparsely settled districts. Your voice "hitch-hikes" along existing power lines on radio waves that are tuned to follow the wires. Several power-line systems are now used on the Pacific Coast . . . and they're as safe and effective to use as any.

These developments are dramatic . . . but most of our expansion program must be pushed with "everyday" things like this post-hole digger . . . wires and cables and switchboards. Our construction program of $200,000,000 this year brings us closer to our goal: the finest telephone service for the West.

New Working Dollars . . . Millions of new dollars needed to build buildings and buy new equipment to meet the public demand for more telephones and more service do not come from telephone bills. New dollars come from people who are willing to put their savings into the business. We must earn enough to attract these new working dollars.

Carmel, California
Sept. 18, 1947.

Mrs. Wilma Cook,
Editor Pine Cone,
Carmel, California.
Dear Mrs. Cook:

For a year, before moving here, I subscribed to the Pine Cone. I hoped to become oriented. Now that my Lares and Penates are here, there is a problem for which I find no answer in your worthy publication.

My furniture was in the process of being unpacked and placed in a Carmel "Gnome" house (an engineering problem in itself) when the relatives began to arrive for the week end. Family ideas on interior decoration were tried out en masse and individually. The steel-backed piano was moved three times. Now a roller is missing. That piano will stay put!

Next the letters from friends and near friends poured in through the general delivery. The kind postmaster, in self-preservation, gave me a box. That didn't stop the eagerness of acquaintances who wrote enthusiastically: "So glad you are living in Carmel! We are coming down and shall certainly look you up."

Excerpts from the voluminous correspondence read: "We've been coming to Carmel for years. Have always stayed at Oak Inn. Now that you have a house there . . ." That from the president of my home town bank!

A distant cousin (formerly too sophisticated to bother with plain me) writes: "Fred's vacation begins September 14. We plan to spend part of it with you." From my favorite radio commentator: "So you're settling in Carmel? Wonderful! My two young sons and I will be down in September. Can you put us up? We have sleeping bags. Don't worry about beds."

The realtor who sold me this tiny house glorified it as a one-bedroom dwelling.

"Two bedrooms," he declared, "would be your undoing." He was SO right!

Please, Mrs. Cook, tell me what is the solution? I have gently hinted that my house is small; accommodations inadequate. I have even rudely stated that I am NOT running a motel. Visiting Carmel enthusiasts merely laugh and reply, "Oh, we know Carmel!"

Since I have no name for this much-visited shack I am tempted to christen it "No Vacancy."

Yours, N. M. L.

Perhaps some other Carmelite has solved this problem, which is a very real problem, indeed. If so, he would be doing a genuine community service in passing on his solution. Though we frown on anonymity in letters to the editor, in this case we will make an exception. Is there anyone who has found a way, without being ungracious, to salvage a little peace, quiet and aloneness in his Carmel "hideaway?" —Editor.

Kathrine Howe

Kathrine McFarland Howe, resident of Carmel for many years, passed away in her sleep last Friday in New York City. Funeral services were held in New York, and according to her request, her ashes were sent to Chicago to be placed beside those of her husband in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Born in Missouri, Mrs. Howe spent her youth and early life in Colorado, moving to Chicago after her marriage and teaching music there for many years before coming to Carmel where she specialized in working with little children. Her intention to retire was always thwarted by the desire to help talented children toward success.

Mrs. Howe was for many years a member of the board of directors of the Carmel Music Society, and was active in civic and political groups. She was a member of the Christian Science Church.

Her zest for living and her radiant personality won her a wide circle of friends in Carmel. Recently she left on a trip east on which she planned to visit friends in Denver, Chicago and New York, and all this was accomplished before the end. Mrs. Howe is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Philip Jones of Redondo Beach, and Miss Winifred Howe of Berkeley; one grandchild, Barbara Jones Scherrer, and three great grand children, Billy, Philip and Winifred Anne Scherrer.

Camera Lured Morley Baer From Writing

The October issue of Better Homes and Gardens will contain a picture of the W. F. H. Schultz home above the Del Monte Golf Course, and in the subsequent months photographs of other Peninsula residences, all taken by Morley Baer, Carmel photographer, will appear in Sunset Magazine, House and Garden, House Beautiful and Architectural Forum.

Morley Baer thought he was going to be a writer when he was studying at the University of Michigan, but later, while writing advertising copy in Chicago, he took up photography as a hobby. Presently the hobby had him in its grasp. During his four and a half years in service with the Navy, in Guam and aboard several carriers such as the Ticonderoga, he put his newly acquired skill to good use.

One of Baer's assignments from Navy Public Relations led him to spend a month on the Monterey Peninsula taking a series of photographs of the Del Monte Naval Training School, under Edward Steichen who is now on the staff of the Modern Museum of New York. While here he was exposed to the influence of Edward Weston, and that fact became his first excuse to settle in Carmel. He even married here—and now he says that when his wife collaborated with him in photographing the details involved in building the Mayfair House (showing the combination of man-made materials with leaves and flowers) her own technique for the purpose was superior to his. This series will appear in a book to be released soon by Thomas Church, the San Francisco landscape architect who was responsible for the good effects at the Mayfair.

Mr. Baer believes that his interest in portraiture first blossomed in Carmel where he has discovered unusual people and has had the insight to draw their true characteristics through the lens. "A photograph is nothing more than the photographer wishes to make it," he claims. "If the photographer understands the subject before him, and all that the subject stands for in the community of ideas where he operates, then the depth of character in that subject appears on the negative. With the camera and the lights which he can command, the photographer can evoke the effects that he believes will truly portray his subject."

As a result of his determination to present personality in each picture he delivers, Mr. Baer refuses to retouch but challenges himself to accomplish the desired end from the materials of his profession. All of his pictures are taken out of doors, and they are unexpectedly revealing in the matter of character.

"Yet, given the same subject and the same camera and the same lights, I still don't get the same results that Edward Weston gets," said Mr. Baer pensively.

Screen Tour Tickets Now Available To General Public

Sunset School Auditorium will be the scene of the Screen Tour lectures to be given by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society during the fall and spring, and the first of the five events will take place on the evening of Wednesday, October 22. Alexander Sprunt, Jr., will speak at that time on Our Living Earth, stressing the meaning and importance of conservation. Colored motion pictures will show the formation of soil, the way a plant is built from air, earth and water, and animal life interrelations. Magnificent views of birds and flowers make this documentary film one of the finest released by the National Audubon Society.

Mr. Sprunt is the author of Dwellers of the Silences and many scientific articles. Part of his vast experience occurred in the Audubon sanctuary areas, comprising three million acres, where during the critical breeding and nesting periods patrolling is done by automobile and power boat, on horseback and by airplane. Vast colonies of birds have been protected from extinction, among them the most spectacular in this country, such as egrets, spoonbills, cranes, ibis and herons. Recently Mr. Sprunt was awarded a Guggenheim grant for the purpose of preparing a book on the birds of his native state, South Carolina. He is said to be a colorful and forceful speaker, whose thorough acquaintance with wildlife and conservation problems give him authority to partake in this distinguished program.

Season tickets for the Screen Tour series, costing $2.40, can be obtained by order from the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, Box 2381, Carmel.

October 5 has been set for the dedication of the restored San Miguel Mission, on Highway 101, seven miles north of Paso Robles, and it promises to be a great day for church dignitaries and laymen alike, since, in addition to the solemn ecclesiastical ceremonies of the dedication, there will be a parade and barbecue in the colorful tradition of early California. Hospitably, the community and the church have invited all California to attend the celebration and take part in the fiesta.

Among the people from this area planning to attend is Father Michael O'Connell of Carmel Mission.

CHOICE is the keynote of today's career

Would you go to Europe, Japan or Korea? Or would you stay near home? Any man who has had prior service in the Armed Forces may elect to do any of these things if he enlists in the Army now for 3 years or more. He can choose to be assigned directly to duty in Europe or with one of five famous Infantry divisions in the Far East. Or he may choose to be stationed near home for the first full year of his enlistment (where there are vacancies). Men with or without prior service may choose one of the famous combat divisions in Japan or Korea.

Would you select a career in aviation? This you can do, and be guaranteed the training you choose before you enlist! Only requirements beyond regular physical and mental examinations are that you be a high school graduate, or that you are in the Air Force and can qualify. It's today's great opportunity to write your own ticket in the Air Force.

Would you want to learn to fly? If you are single, 20 to 26½, and have had two or more years of college education or the equivalent, you can become an Aviation Cadet with the U. S. Air Force. Nowhere else can you get better training, for nowhere else is aviation advancing as fast or as far as in our own Air Force.

Would you go to a leadership school? If you have qualities of leadership, would you want to develop them to their fullest? U. S. Army Leadership Schools are now selecting likely candidates from servicemen to take these valuable courses.

The Army and Air Force are doing everything possible today to help each individual develop along the lines that he picks for himself. Army and Air Force training is thorough and take-home pay is better than most civilian jobs. Opportunities for advancement are wide open to every man in uniform. Make your choice today at your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

Now that Fall is officially here, The Poor Scholar (in Monterey) doesn't feel so unseasonable in bringing up the matter of his Christmas cards . . .

If you like personalized greetings, he has eleven books to choose from, at prices from 25 for $1.95 imprinted, and up and UP. Actually, there is a twelfth, but The Poor Scholar (in Monterey) doesn't know where it came from, doesn't like it, and is not letting you have anything to do with it.

However, he does like The Gallery Artists cards, beautiful reproductions of the work of such diverse people as Dali and Norman Rockwell, Picasso and Currier & Ives.

The Edna Markoe book is another you're sure to admire—as distinctive as any cards you'll ever find.

On the silly side is a book of cards by Wolo, whimsical as all get out, as reasonable, too. 25, imprinted, for $2.95.

Carlis-Frederiksen of San Francisco have cards in the modern manner that are truly original.

The Alice Daly cards are the products of incredible energy. Miss Daly makes and dresses mannikins and poses them in typical and delightful attitudes and the whole are then photographed in sparkling color. They don't look like photographs, but they do look like Christmas cards, which is more to the point.

Then there is Fravessi-Lamont, featuring cards by Angela and a whole stable of talented artists.

There are chaste and formal greetings (note type), imprinted at 25 for $2.50.

The well-loved Brownie Blockprints, at 5 and 10 cents, are here in quantity, of course, and if you insist. The Poor Scholar (in Monterey) will have them imprinted.

Cards in boxes, too, along with Christmas stationery.

Gift wraps and ribbons. And some of the most heavenly handprinted, silk screen papers you EVER saw. Anywhere.

Books, too, naturally, at The Poor Scholar, over the hill in Monterey, corner of Polk and Hartnell, hard by the Postoffice.

SHIFTING SCENE
CHAPTER III.

BY DAISY BOSTICK

It is difficult to go back a hundred years and trace the many changes that came to this part of the country after the American occupation. To write extensively of the interesting people that first came here and settled, to trace the ownership of the various sections of what is now Carmel, to follow up the characteristics of each group, to outline the aims, ambitions and abilities of its leaders, might very well fill a small book. The half-century that followed Sloat's landing in Monterey in 1846 and the subsequent development of Carmel,, the youngest of the Peninsula towns, have interesting possibilities. I can find no books nor printed matter on the subject of the transition from the wilderness which became Carmel to the coming of Frank Powers and J. F. Devendorf who founded the Carmel Development Company. And even from there on the records are spare, inadequate and hard to get, except for personal recollections of those who are still here, until the year 1916 when Carmel was incorporated. After that date we can trust the records at the City Hall as far as property ownerships are concerned.

I have been helped by various Carmel residents, some of whom have lived here for more than half a century and others who were born here, before Carmel became a settlement, and out of the mass of information and varied personal recollections of these old-timers, and with neither time nor space for many details, I shall have to hit the highlights and then follow up certain avenues of exploration in future articles.

Let us first try to be with Father Junipero Serra when he looked over the Peninsula to select the ideal spot for his mission other than the one he had established in Monterey. He gazed with delight on the gentle slope extending to the mouth of the big river. This land was ideal for his agricultural experiments "It is the Garden of God!" he exclaimed. To him and his associate priests the mountain on the south side of the slope beyond the river looked like Mount Carmel of the Holy Land, so the new site for the mission was named San Carlos Borromeo De Carmelo and the wide gently flowing river was called Rio Carmelo. It is also claimed that Sebastian Viscaino when sailing past the bay of Carmel in 1602, later to land at Monterey, also commented upon the resemblance between the mountain marking the entrance to the valley and the historic mount known so well in Biblical days, and that he also wished to honor the Carmelite friars who accompanied his expedition, so he named the valley Carmelo. If this be true, Carmel was really named one hundred and sixty-eight years before the arrival of Serra.

When a town was finally born on the outskirts of the Mission land the euphonious spelling of Carmelo was shortened and the little village was christened Carmel. Later the name was officially changed to Carmel-by-the-Sea but by the old residents it has always been called Carmel.

The century following the coming of Gaspar de Portola and Junipero Serra saw Monterey beginning to grow up into a community with social and business interests, but most of the country on this side of the hill remained in its primitive state, still untouched by the white man. True, there was traffic over the hill to and from the Mission. The priests and the Mission Indians toiled back and forth over the narrow trails. Visiting explorers like Comte de la Perouse, the Frenchman, and George Vancouver, the English navigator were escorted over the hill with pomp and colorful ceremony to the Carmel Mission where lavish entertainment was provided and religious celebrations were held.

Now let us get back to Honore Escolle of Monterey who in the eighteen fiftys became owner of the large tract embracing the greater part of the present city of Carmel. His land extended south to our present Twelfth Avenue, and Monte Verde was the western boundary. In 1859 John Martin from Canada became the owner of all the land between the Mission boundaries and Twelfth Avenue and included in his holdings was the large acreage which we now call Carmel Point. His youngest child, Isabel, now Mrs. Robert Leidig, has in her possession the deeds from Juan Romero, the original owner, who may have secured the property under one of the early Spanish Land Grants, to a man by the name of William Curtis in 1852; then from Curtis to L. F. and Annie Loveland in 1856 and from the Lovelands to John Martin in 1859. The phraseology of these documents is quaint and interesting. Romero signed his name with a cross. One of the sellers made a condition in his deed that he be allowed to rent two rooms from the new owner for two months at Five Dollars per month, and to show that he meant business and that he would leave the rooms in good condition at the end of the stated time, he put up a bond of One Thousand Dollars.

John Martin had a stock ranch and dairy and as it was neccessary to keep the stock under control, he ran a high fence along his boundary on Twelfth Avenue with a gate to give entrance to riders and pedestrians. When the boys got careless about closing the gate, the owner was obliged to keep it locked. Nothing daunted, the horseman spurred his animal to a daring leap over the fence.

Joe Hitchcock tells me that the land down near the shore line was a big hayfield and that in the early days of the Carmel settlement the merchants would close up shop on week ends and go down to a cleared space near the beach and play baseball. This was probably a forerunner of the famous Abalone League which later moved to a new location.

During Escolle's ownership of the original holdings, various small groups drifted in and attempted some sort of colonization. Perhaps the one most remembered consisted of a number of people recruited from the society of Chosen Friends of San Francisco who came down here in 1890 under the leadership of Abbie Jane Hunter and formed a company under the title of San Francisco Land Company. They proceeded to sell scattered lots and to build some houses. Although their settlement centering on the north side of Ocean Avenue was named Carmel City, and still bears that name on the official maps, Escolle was still the real owner of the land, for William Dummage, who acted as agent for the new company bought a block of land and after waiting for some time received a deed for the same from Honore Escolle. Also associated with those early days of Carmel history were the names of Goldsmith, Horn, Berwick, Cogle. And it is said that a religious organization also made plans to start a colony here but later abandoned the project.

In the early days of this century, James F. Devendorf, a promoter of real estate subdivisions drove one day around the Seventeen-Mile Drive, starting at Pacific Grove. He saw the white sands of Carmel Beach in the distance and the lovely forested slope back of it and then and there resolved to bring together a group of people that would love the seclusion and beauty that such a situation could provide. With his usual impetuosity he set himself to the task. He found a kindred spirit in Frank Powers and the result of this association became in time the Carmel Development Company.

So the wilderness got tired of the struggle, gave up and the new owners took complete possession about the beginning of this century. Through their vision a village was born. Its inhabitants were fully satisfied with the quiet and beauty that surrounded them and the communal life was marked by the spirit of friendliness and cooperation. Businessmen and workers in the building trades came flocking in and set about providing for the needs of the young settlement.

NEW DISCOVERIES

Nut and berry stained, the attared air
Weighing his eyes, his feet slowed in the fall,
Year-deep, upon the forest trail, aware
Of tree and grass, a timid, hot and small
Boy raids the woodfolks' larder for his share.

Since sun-up he has measured flat and hill,
Surveyed the brook and is the first to spy
Fern frond and tiger-lily: a shocked, stock-still,
And furtive Pan, his breath held by the cry
Of woodfolk, with wonder pre-empting his will.

A new-come woodsman, spellbound by the stir
Of the first days of a boy's errantry,
With song and wind, all a clean wood's allure,
The precious gifts of this green treasury,
He fills the kit of a discoverer.

—ALEX R. SCHMIDT.

FARMER'S CLOCK

These oranges, green marbles on the trees,
Hang half a year from harvest in late fall
And no one but a farmer would they please
Not being golden, sweet, sunkist and all.
But they are minutes on the farmer's clock;
To him their stated time is always clear,
And merely glancing at them, he takes stock
From day to day the accurate time of year.

—J. S. MOODEY.

STRANGE VIOLINS

I heard strange music when you came
In April's going—
A rush of sound I could not name,
Like water flowing
Over a river's golden stones—
Like soft winds towing
A veil of murmurous sapphire tones
Across a blowing
Fountain's rainbow-prismed light.

Warm vibrant notes still thread the lanes
In winter's snowing—
You speak, and frosted window panes
Are carols, sowing
The dusk with scattered crystal song.
The secrets glowing
In spring's frail madrigals belong
To the heart's high knowing—
Strange violins that haunt the night.

Van Nuys Entry Takes "Best" In Del Monte Show

A brindle Boxer entered by the Barmere Kennels of Van Nuys, California, won the coveted best in show award at the 22nd Annual All-Breed Del Monte Kennel Club Dog Show last Sunday at the Mission Ranch. The final judging did not take place until about 9 o'clock, but even so, a large crowd remained for the event.

Competing for best in show were the winners of the variety groups: a Boston Terrier, a black Cocker Spaniel, a Pomeranian, a Dachshund, a Welsh Terrier and the Boxer.

More than 500 dogs were entered in the show and the judging was continuous through the day. It was estimated that a crowd of about 2,000 was on hand.

Although no local dogs won firsts in the variety groups, a number of them won top honors in their own classes.

Local exhibitors included: Jay Allen, Carmel Valley; Mrs. E. J. Armstrong, Highlands; Mrs. Geo. Chin, Monterey; Grace Chittenden, Carmel; Mary Contreras, Monterey; Robert and Eunice Curtin, Pacific Grove; Frank Decker, Monterey; Del Monte Kennels Catherine D'Amico, Monterey; Philip M. de Bord, Monterey; James S. Emerson; Katherine Gentry; Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hartman, Monterey; Jake Huizenga, Monterey; Laura Kench, Pacific Grove; Mrs. L. K. Morton, Colorado Canyon; Mrs. Amelia Myette; Lloyd Rasmussen, Pacific Grove; Charity Rigsby, Monterey; Susan Salsbury, Carmel; Glen Sorey, Carmel; H. W. Toulmin, Monterey; Mrs. C. C. Von Aken, Carmel; Lewis Walker, Pacific Grove; Wilfred White, Carmel, and Mary C. Zanetta, Monterey.

Miss Marion Kingsland, show committee chairman, was taken ill at the show, and was rushed to the hospital for observation shortly after the events opened in the morning. Since her collapse was due to over exertion she was up and around again on Monday.

Rosamond Praeger Sculptures Another Lovely Piece

The September 5 Belfast News-Letter, published in Belfast, Ireland, arrived in Carmel Tuesday carrying a half-tone of the Sir Hamilton Harty Memorial at Hillsborough, a bird bath erected in the grounds of the Hillsborough Parish Church, "where the ashes of the distinguished Ulster musician were buried on Wednesday."

The bird bath was designed by Rosamond Praeger, sister of Harry J. Praeger, Carmel's most enthusiastic Orangeman, and is described in the paper as being "made of Irish limestone, with figures around it which represent the spirit of music, and bird songs."

Miss Praeger has established a distinguished reputation as a sculptor in this country and in Europe and has produced many fine pieces, several small examples of which are in her brother's Carmel home at Lincoln and Eighth.

Mrs. Ballard To Discuss Alien Laws At C. U. Meeting

The public is invited to attend the meeting of the Council of Civic Unity of the Monterey Peninsula Monday evening, September 29, 8 p. m. at the Girl Scout House in Carmel.

The speaker will be Mrs. Frances Ballard, who will review the book The Alien and the Asiatic in American Law. This book was written by Milton P. Konvitz as a research project for the Cornell University School of Industrial and Labor Relations. It was made possible by grants from the Rockefeller Foundation and the Cornell Research in Civic Liberties Departmant.

From this book we may learn just what laws California has in regard to aliens and how they compare with laws of other states and with federal laws. This should be of great interest to all who have been studying racial problems.

Mrs. Ballard is a graduate of Bryn Mawr and the University of Pennsylvania Law School. She is a member of the Philadelphia and the New York Bar, and has practised in both cities besides doing research and radio work. She retired in 1939 and came to California in 1941. She has resided in Carmel for the past four years and is serving as legislative chairman of the League of Women Voters.

Election of officers will take place, and the following ticket has been presented by the nominating committee:

Mr. M. L. Deissler, president; Capt. Clifford Hooper, first vice president; Mr. Kay Nobusada, second vice president; Mr. Robert Sabin, third vice president; Mrs. Hester Sabin, recording secretary; Mrs. Marian Todd, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Julia Breinig, treasurer.

Who, When, Where, Etc?

Phil Nesbitt says he is going away, and on request contributes the following squib, which is a typical Nesbittana. "After many months of pondering his various intentions, Phil Nesbitt has at last determined to make an eastern jaunt, mostly for contact with publishers, some for the joy of the open road, some to alter his over-devotion to the Carmel Scene. He hopes that during his absence, those who are friends will remember to hold visitations with his spritely wife, Jessie Jean, and his two blond babies, Guy and Jane."

Unfortunately, Phil doesn't mention when he is to depart so that those who are friends may know when the visitations should start.

We All Need Fun!

Nobody in Our Town is exactly lazy (even though Pete Swanson's missus claims he sleeps till seven A.M.). But the hardest working man of all is Doc Hollister—on call, morning, noon and night.

Funny thing, Doc's favorite prescription to his patients is: You ought to have fun. The pace of modern living, even on the farm, demands some relaxation.

And as Doc says—fun is a personal thing. For the missus it may mean a movie or a good book; for Dad, a mellow and refreshing glass of beer; and for the kids, parcheesi or the radio. Doesn't mean everybody has to like the same thing—so long as they relax, have fun, together, in the home.

Doc doesn't have much time himself. After a hard day, he'll relax before the fire with a glass of beer—and wait for the phone to ring again. And from where I sit, Doc deserves each well-earned minute of that relaxation.

University Women's Tea

Close to a hundred members and guests gathered in Colton Hall at Monterey civic center last Saturday afternoon for the annual new-member tea of the American Association of University Women, Monterey Peninsula Branch. Mrs. Gordon Beall; Mrs. Thor Krogh, vice-president; Miss Effa Spencer, secretary, and Miss Marie Schatz, treasurer, received the guests, who were presented by members of the society.

The short program was an interesting outline of the story of Colton Hall given by Delbert R. Jeffers, Monterey city librarian, taken largely from the diary of Walter Colton, supplemented by newspaper reports of the period a century ago.

In one end of the long room with its many windows overlooking the bay a beautifully appointed table sparkled with fine china and crystal, at which Mrs. Elizabeth Hill, Mrs. Harold Youngman, Miss Frances Whitehead, and Miss Harriet Baker served fruit juice, dainty sandwiches and cakes, arranged by Miss Ruth Blanchard, hostess chairman, and her committee. Old friends were warmly greeted and new ones cordially welcomed into the fellowship of the A.A.U.W. at this first meeting of the 1947-1948 period of activity.

The Abernethys' Reception

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Abernethy received at their home on San Antonio Street last Sunday. Nearly a hundred guests called between the hours of 4-6. The perfect day made the enchanting patio, with its background of cypress trees and bright flowers, an ideal place for serving cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. In the dining room a buffet supper awaited the guests when they came in doors. This is the first of a series of parties that the Abernethys plan giving this fall.

LeRoy-Avery Wedding

Miss Yvonne N. LeRoy of San Francisco and Tol W. Avery, announcer and producer for the National Broadcasting Company in San Francisco, were married on Thursday evening at the Church of the Wayfarer by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray. Witnesses for their very simple ceremony were Miss Grace Zelia Frank of Oakland and Capt. Darwin L. Johnston of the 4th Inf. Division, Fort Ord, whose marriage took place on Friday evening at the church. At this wedding, attended by a large number of relatives and friends, Miss Aldyth P. Glenn of Monterey was maid of honor and Lt. Paul L. Worthly of Fort Ord the best man. Captain and Mrs. Johnston are to live in Monterey.

Fishermen Back

With stories (true) of rainbow up to five pounds, and limits of cutthroat and brook every day they went out, a group of Carmel people returned home this week from two weeks at the Pittsburgh Club in eastern Idaho. They are Mayor and Mrs. Fred Godwin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Carey, Drs. Harry and Ray Brownell and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Henry of Pebble Beach. The Henrys went on to Canada and won't be home until somewhat later, and Dr. Ray Brownell went to New York. The Cochranes are home only temporarily, for they plan to leave for duck hunting at Tule Lake, northern California, on October 10.

Mrs. May Addresses L.W.V.

The consistently democratic way in which the League of Women Voters selects the subjects for special study and action with legislative bodies was outlined by Mrs. Samuel C. May, state president of the organization, at the meeting last week of the Monterey Peninsula L. W. V. While the selection is made by the national board, it is based upon the requests of the local Leagues through their state conventions. At the present time requests are being sent out by the national board to the local organizations throughout the United States, asking what public questions the members wish to go on the program of study, and ultimately for action, for the years 1948 to 1950. The answers are desired about the first of next year in order that the decision may be completed by next fall.

See Forty-Niner Game

George Mosolf, Carmel High School coach, Ted Fehring, Bud Butts, Charlie Childers and Cliff Cook drove to San Francisco last Sunday to take in the N. Y. Yankee-S. F. Forty-Niner football game at Kezar Stadium.

Tevises At Tahoe

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tevis have taken a house at Lake Tahoe for a month and are entertaining friends from Carmel. Anita and Paul Whitney are there, and Mr. and Mrs. Kent Parrot are going up for the weekend.

Guests of Maud De Yoe

Mrs. H. I. Hickox of Portland, Oregon, who has been the guest of Mrs. Maud De Yoe, has returned to her home. Bob De Yoe came down from San Francisco and spent the week end with his mother.

It may either appall or inspire you to realize that children spend ninety-seven per cent of their time at home and three per cent of their time at school during the first ten years of their lives. A parent must be a combination of many virtues and practically all knowledge—and with the assistance of CHILDCRAFT which may be found at the CARMEL BOOKSELLERS on Mission north of Fifth an ordinary parent may expect something startling in results in child rearing. CHILDCRAFT is a group of fourteen volumes which have been compiled by impressive authorities. The books offer guidance for parents and widely varied entertainment for children and, most important, give parents some idea of what they may expect from their children. There are songs and games and pictures for the smallest child, and for the adolescent and older young people there are fascinating selections from world literature. You will fear no more rainy days or extended vacations with CHILDCRAFT in the house, and the books might do much to make your house a home.

A fig for your fishtail backs and your dipped hems and your Congress gaiter shoes! Interesting new seasoning no doubt, but the backbone of any wardrobe is a good suit, and good suits do not change materially over a period of years. If a suit be born and made with distinction, it may be worn for years with assurance. In THE COUNTRY SHOP on Ocean Avenue you will find suits with character from Izod of London and Philip Mangone and Davidow on this side of the Atlantic. There are suits from many other sources in THE COUNTRY SHOP but these three names offer all there is to be offered in suits. Would you like a superb gray gabardine or a city sort of suit to carry you townward with elegance? Philip Mangone's your man. For more relaxed gabardines and flannels and worsteds look for Davidow's creations, and for wonderful gray flannels and tweeds with contrasting hooded topcoats IZOD of London is peerless.

If you have a sensitive skin or a skin easily irritated, or if you yourself are easily irritated by the frequently overpowering scents and claims of cosmetics, try visiting the DOLORES PHARMACY for Physicians Formula Cosmetics or the Hypo-Allergenic Cosmetics by Marcelle. These creams, lotions and facial preparations are very lightly scented—many of Marcelle's preparations are not scented at all but bear only a good clean smell, and their main virtue is that they most probably will not irritate your skin but rather tend it carefully. The Marcelle preparations are not expensive and bear the Good Housekeeping seal of approval. For a sensitive nose we recommend Ciro's new and delightful colognes — Surrender, Danger and Reflexions.

FORTIER'S on Ocean and Dolores has received brushes bearing this most interesting information. First, these brushes come from the City of London Brush Works. The timber in them is from selected logs, so the label says, and the bristles are selected by hand from special hogs. For more than 150 years R. A. Rooney and Sons have been making these brushes. They are, in short, the aristocrat of British brushes. Rooney's offers a military brush, a club brush with a short handle, a long handled brush for women and a bath brush with a long, long handle which is easily removable for close quarter scrubbing.

A visit to Carmel Woods Studio of Howell Armor reveals considerable confusion among his tools and carvings since they have just returned from the Marin County Art and Garden Show in Ross where Mr. Armor had a show. While there he completed several projects, among them a set of salad plates in koa wood which he received recently from Hawaii. He's also been working on a pair of life size hands which hold silver or ceramic hemispheres appropriately decorated for a bachelor's apartment or a bar. The Armor studio is on San Pedro lane in Carmel Woods, and you'll be welcomed there if you call 1450-M to be sure someone is there to receive you.

THE COVERED WAGON on Dolores is holding a closing out sale, after which the shop will reopen as a girls' dress shop. In the meantime at THE COVERED WAGON'S sale you can buy beautiful dolls at great reductions, such as a Florette doll seventeen inches high for $7.75, which originally sold for $12.75. There are baby dolls and toys all reduced considerably. Candles and leather goods are way down. Corde thread, Strawlite and Belastrow, from each of which handsome bags may be made, are being sold at cost.

If you're sewing for children, parents, husbands or yourself you'll be delighted with the woolens and woolen mixtures on sale at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT on Ocean Avenue. These materials are offered at remarkably low prices. Many of them formerly cost double their current sale price. There is a whole table full of woolens in plaids, stripes and solid colors, 54 inches wide and selling for only $2.95 a yard. You'll find materials suitable for dresses, suits and coats all most suitably reduced.

You can build a house with ease around many of the pieces in THE HERITAGE ANTIQUE SHOP in the Sundial Court Studio on Monte Verde. A beautiful dry sink of pine would set the scene most handsomely in your dining room or living room, and its large storage space behind polished wooden doors can hold many things. In the shop there is a bargain of an antique decorated Pennsylvania Dutch dower chest with the original decorations intact. Inside the chest are beautifully wrought iron strap hinges. For storage in the grand manner you should look at the high blanket chest in satiny old pine. This chest is an exceptional piece with fine lines and an unusually high apron.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Mullnix were the honor guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert "Waldo" Hicks Wednesday evening at a reception in their home on Mission Street, when they celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. A tiered cake, beautifully decorated, was used as a centerpiece, and white roses carried out the bridal motif. Mr. and Mrs. Mullnix were presented with a chest of silver, and many other lovely gifts. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leidig, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leidig, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller, Mr. and Mrs. George Schweninger, William Adams, and Ralph "Pappy" Hicks, father of Mrs. Mullnix. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gene Vogler of Auburn, Mrs. Leanna Lange of San Bruno, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hicks of Pacific Grove.

"Reality" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson - Sermon for Sunday, September 28, with the Golden Text taken from Psalms: "As for God, his way is perfect: the word of the Lord is tried: he is a buckler to all those that trust in him" (18:30).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

I Peter: "Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ" (1:13).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every agony of mortal error helps error to destroy error, and so aids the apprehension of immortal Truth. This is the new birth going on hourly, by which men may entertain angels, the true ideas of God, the spiritual sense of being" (p. 548).

PRESS-PTA DINNER

At an informal dinner and lively discussion meeting held by members of the Monterey County Press and presidents of County PTA groups and their news service chairmen held Tuesday evening at Plantation Gardens in Salinas, many provocative thoughts were expressed that should interest every family in the county which has a school-age child.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Sherwin T. Smith, president of the Monterey County Council.

for the beauty in nature, and throughout his youth he studied wildlife and became a naturalist without being aware of it. During his college days and his years of traveling in Europe he did the conventional thing and improved upon his academic standing, but his heart was always close to the earth.

Mr. Graves was a teacher of Romance languages at Wesleyan University for some years and later made use of his research training in library work. He was a Phi Beta Kappa and a member of other scholarly societies—but he was also a member of the Sierra Club and organizer of the Nature Lovers' Club of Oregon. The time came when at last he was free to devote his major time to the earliest love, nature and all that the outdoors represents.

Mr. Graves has written many deeply moving free verse poems that sound, when read aloud, like the notes of an organ. He has a quiet exterior, self-effacing, yet the force within him is felt by his friends. The artistry with which he selects the scene he must photograph explains his power of balance, and the vigor with which he searches for the unusual and exquisite along the earth's crust betrays his sense of adventure. His articles in the Pine Cone have revealed some of his excitement at photographing moonset and other difficult phenomena. Last week's issue carried his review of Sally Carrighar's nature book that went on sale this week at the book stores.

"Jackson Hole is almost as good as Carmel when it comes to meeting celebrities," he said, "but the best experience I had during this summer was meeting Sally Carrighar."

Mr. Graves took the opportunity to attend the three-day convention of the Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs held this year in Utah under the auspices of the Wasatch Mountain Club, 25 miles east of Salt Lake City, and then the first week in September he arrived at Yellowstone National Park. There it had begun to snow. Being snowed in was a risk he did not care to take, considering that Carmel was waiting to welcome him to an equable climate and a cheerful hearth for chilly evenings, so he came quickly away, with only a few pictures of that corner of colorful America.

—Glenn Clairmonte.

Mrs. J. V. Short Here

Last week, Mrs. James Vernon Short came back to Carmel to spend several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni at their Palisades Ranch in the Valley. Mrs. Short, and her two sons, Harvey and Irving, have a wide circle of friends here who were happy to greet her at the informal tea which Mrs. Leoni gave in her honor Monday afternoon. They were brought up to date on the family news and learned that Captain Harvey Short is living at Fort Benning, Georgia, with his wife and that he is an instructor with the Army. Lieutenant Irving Short and his wife are living in Baltimore, where he is an instructor in the Intellegence School.

agenda for acquisition as Project No. 2 of the shore line parks project, no move has yet been made by the county to buy the land. It has been sold by one private owner to another; the latter is now transferring soil from the river's edge behind the tule area to the meadows on the north, to make a filled gronud for home building. Tules have been destroyed, inadvertently, in the earth moving process. The present owner protests that he has no intention of damaging the tule area further, at the present time, but so long as the land remains out of public ownership, the wildlife area is in danger of destruction. No private owner can guarantee that financial considerations will not make commercial development necessary, nor that the land will again change hands.

"Ferocious" Bear Guards County Fair

Herefords and Jerseys and Angus bulls, as well as several strange looking Brahmin cattle and Brahmin crosses. The horse shows promise to attract most attention, although there are dogs to be judged too.

The fair includes also some utterly wonderful artificial animals. In the exhibit from the Pacific Grove Elementary Schools there is a great grey elephant who is a fine beast, and in the same building is a barn yard in which sit a white-faced cow, a Jersey horse, a small pig and a horse with a belt. The most ferocious animal in the fair is a brown bear who sits astride a tractor near the entrance gate with his claws outspread, his sharp teeth showing and his blue button eyes gleaming.

Sooo Distinctive Is Carmel's P. D., And How We Like It

Carmel's plushy police department, not content with a little blue and white cottage with flowers around the door for headquarters, now outshines everybody else in town with a hand etched chromiumplated name plate (nothing so commonplace as a sign hanging out over the sidewalk for our police department).

The name plate is a work of art. This is not a figure of speech. It IS a work of art, a graceful pine bough provided with pine cones over the inscription, Carmel Police Department, done by one of California's and Carmel's outstanding etchers, Ferdinand Burgdorff.

Where else, pray tell, will you find top flight etchers doing gratis, out of the goodness of their hearts, name plates for police department doors?

Ah, Carmel!

PORTRAIT TO FAIR

A portrait of Mary Gregory, painted by Amy Goold, will be on exhibit at the County Fair, as one of the examples of work accomplished in the Carmel Adult School.

Mary Gregory conducted the Hi Chatter column in the Pine Cone last year and after her graduation from Carmel High School was awarded the University of California Alumni Scholarship from this area. She has now enrolled as a Freshman at Berkeley. Mrs. Goold, who has only recently begun the study of art, has been attending classes given by Lee Randolph, Kay Rogers and Henrietta Shore.

William Coates

William W. Coates, 70, died at his home at 7th and Hatton Road last Sunday, as the result of a heart attack. He had come to Carmel a year and a half ago upon retirement as a business executive.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Beulah Coates, and by four sons: William W. Coates, Jr., of Austin, Texas, Meredith M. Coates, of Newhope, Pennsylvania, Neligh C. Coates of Kansas City, Missouri, and Gordon R. Coates of St. Louis Missouri, T. A. Dorney made the local arrangements. Services were held Wednesday in Kansas City.
